Not illustrated. 1868 Excerpt: .In the schools of intermediate importance again, such as Hawkshead, Kirkham, Leigh, Ulverston, and so forth, classics are still taught, but seldom to any great extent. In another part of this Report will be found Tables showing present what are the subjects of instruction in each of the Lancashire 111. icentscentsl endowed schools. Comparing these statistics with those obtained a. c. 4. Place held by the classics. The rural schools. from private schools, it appears that in the endowed schools 41 per cent. of the scholars are learning Latin, while in those private schools whose returns are sutliciently complete to make it possible to institute the comparison, only 26 per cent. are at Latin. So of Greek-thc per-centage, in endowed schools, of boys learning, out of the total number of boys, is 15 per cent.; in private schools, 1 per cent. There are many of the poorer endowed schools (those classed under C1) where Latin is returned as being taught, but where it is little better than a name, where one may perhaps find two boys plodding away at the accidence, and a third nearly ready, after six monthswork at his Delectus, to begin the study of Czesar s Wars in Gaul. For years there has been no regular Latin class, but the shadow is retained because the school is by tradition classical, and the master finds a harmless pleasure in the display of his recon dite stores of learning. Even in those of the larger...
